Our Members Are Our Stars!

We loved seeing all the photos you submitted for the Nov/Dec issue of NAWIC Today! In fact, we plan on using more member photos and less stock photos from now on. So please keep sending in your hi-res photos for us to use in publications (Connection, NAWIC Today) AND so that you could possibly be a star of marketing material!

The theme for the Jan/Feb issue of NAWIC Today is Technology, so start sending in those photos now, and you could be on the cover next month!

Also, if you have story ideas or would like to submit an article, send those over to Amber at ambers@nawic.org!

Offsite Construction: Myths, Methods and Measurable Impacts

Join Procore and Construction Executive for an in-depth conversation on offsite construction, including: what it is, what it isn't, how it's done and, ultimately—the impact it has for teams and companies.

Offsite construction, or what's sometimes referred to as “constructing,” is more than just prefabrication. Hear why this method is important not just to general contractors, but to owners, insurance companies and industry trades. Don't miss this conversation as we'll cover the benefits and impact that offsite construction has on safety, efficiency, quality and even labor shortages.

You'll hear:

- Stories and statistics around this rising industry trend;
- Insider tips, from navigating contract terms to taking BIM to the next level with offsite design plans; and
- The impact in crucial areas like safety, quality, cost overruns and labor.
